DISASTER AID METHODS TOLD

National Red Cross Director Speaks Before Tampa Officials

Most efficient methods for administering disaster relief during emergencies were outlined by Robert E. Bondy, Washington, D. C. national director of disaster relief of the Red Cross, and discussed by more than 50 Red Cross leaders at a meeting here late yesterday.

While a storm brewed around Tampa, Mr. Bondy emphasized the necessity for preparedness and the importance of keeping in touch with the Weather Bureau to learn of impending climatic disturbances. He also discussed relief methods for other disasters.

Mr. Bondy declared that in order to give quick aid, the Red Cross chapters should be well-equipped, strongly organized and aware of the particular hazards in their communities. The public also should be instructed beforehand in the need for cooperation in case of an emergency, he said.

Fixing of responsibility in capable persons is important in preparing for any disaster, Mr. Bondy said, adding that the persons in charge should have absolute control in the purchase of food and the speedy distribution of food, clothing and medical supplies.

In discussing Red Cross methods for handling hurricane disasters, Mr. Bondy urged all Red Cross leaders to be prepared as soon as storm warnings are raised.

Mr. Bondy, an expert on disaster relief, spoke here as a part of a nationwide educational campaign. This afternoon he was scheduled to address a group of Red Cross leaders at Fort Myers.

Other speakers were Metcomeglat Talbott, of the Tampa Weather Bureau office; Clarence F. Rowland, Red Cross representative in Florida; Lieut. Bertram, commander of the U. S. Coast Guard station at St. Petersburg, and James C. Handly, chairman of the Tampa Chapter. Gerlis B. Henderson, chairman of the disaster relief committee of the local chapter, presided.

Bushnell to Be Site Of Farmers' Market

Special to The Times

Bushnell, July 30.—William L. Wilson, director of state markets, wired a local committee here that the Marketing Board composed of Governor Cone, Commissioner Mayo and Commissioner of Markets Rhodes had decided on Bushnell as the site for Sumter County State Farmers Market.

It is estimated that the market will cost about $25,000 to be provided by federal, state and local funds. It will be constructed and ready for use in time for next Spring's vegetable crops. Twenty acres of land has been donated for the site.

GOVERNOR COMMENTS.

Tallahassee, July 30.—(AP)—Governor Cone said he hoped the State's social security program would be in full operation "in the near future" so that "everybody entitled to $30 a month will get it if the funds available will permit."

SURPRISE DINNER HONORS JONES

Employes, Officers of Brewing Company Attend

Southern Brewing Co. employes and officers and distributors and branch managers from other sections of the state gave a surprise birthday dinner at Elsie's Villa last night honoring E. G. Jones, vice president and general manager.

O. D. Chesley was master of ceremonies. Greetings to Mr. Jones from the entire group were recorded and the records presented with a scroll bearing the signatures of all company employes and officers.

Among the out-of-town guests were Fred G. Murphy of Daytona Beach, George Ohler of Lake Worth, Simon Mack of Orlando, W. A. Kline, Jacksonville, and Edward F. Johns, Gainesville.

Announcement was made that new equipment is expected soon to enlarge the brewery's bottling facilities. Plans for expanding operations when the new bottling plant is installed in the building recently purchased by the brewery were outlined by Mr. Jones.

Brief talks were made by Frank J. Gaither, president of the Tampa Chamber of Commerce, G. D. Curtis, William Waring and Arthur Blasky.

Bear Snatched Him Bare-Headed

Spokane, Wash., July 30.—(AP)—The train stopped in Glacier National Park. P. Weigand, Buffalo, N. Y., leaned out the window to watch the antics of a big black bear.

"Watch!" went the bear's paw. Off came Weigand's hat—and hair. The latter, fortunately for Weigand, was a toupee.
